Simpsonville makes second list of best places to live
City ranks No. 2 for affordable housing

Simpsonville, S.C. — The City of Simpsonville ranks No. 10 out of 51 cities in a study to determine the best places to live in South Carolina.

WalletHub, a financial advice website, ranked Simpsonville No. 2 for its low poverty rate and No. 3 for affordable housing, according to the study. Overall, Simpsonville topped the cities of Charleston, Clemson, Easley and Greenville.

The City of Simpsonville also made the 10 Best Places to Live in South Carolina list for 2018, a list compiled by regional “infotainment” site HomeSnacks.

Mayor of Simpsonville Janice Curtis was happy to hear that Simpsonville is getting the recognition she said the City has earned.

“The economic security the residents of Simpsonville enjoy is just one example of how great a place Simpsonville is to live,” Curtis said. “The City of Simpsonville continues to grow, and we are striving to not only make Simpsonville one of the best places to live in the state but one of the best places to live in the country.”

“The economic security the residents of Simpsonville enjoy is just one example of how great a place Simpsonville is to live.”

WalletHub conducted the study by comparing 51 cities on family life and fun, education, health and safety, affordability and socioeconomics, according to the study.
